

Treasury Would Stagger Under Bonus Deficit

Politicians Must Choose Next Fall Between Bonus or Taxation Protests

HOPE OF RELIEF IS FADING

Burden of Overdrawn Budget is Bound to Face Nation for Next Two Years

By David Lawrence
(Copyright, 1922, by Post Pub. Co.)
Washington—The government of the United States faces the biggest deficit in its history if the soldier bonus bills now to be passed by congress are to become law.

The determination of congressional leaders to pass the bonus is expressed in the face of White House and treasury department opposition so that only a presidential veto can save the situation.

But the painful facts which now are coming out in connection with the bonus agitation is that the government will have a deficit for 1922 and 1923 of approximately $300,000,000 whether there is a bonus or not. At the time and any about the economy has only been of avail in preventing the deficit from becoming larger but the truth is the congressman up for re-election next fall will have to choose between the number of votes expected to be gained by passing a bonus bill and number of votes certain to be lost through the protests of the large army of taxpayers whose burdens will prove to be as irksome as in the years immediately following the war. The relief from taxation which it had been confidently hoped might come in the next two years is vanishing into the air.

REVEAL TRUTH

Treasury officials make no effort to conceal the truth much as the members of congress responsible for the present fiscal situation may be inclined to gloss it over. So long as there were to be no added taxes and it was still possible to pare down expenditures, the treasury held out hope that the budget for 1922 and 1923 might be balanced and the deficits wiped out but with a big bonus bill staring the treasury in the face, Secretary Mellon has come out with a statement of the situation which is causing the more thoughtful members of congress much uneasiness.

For a while after the president Harding recently submitted the budget to congress—there was uncertainty whether the deficits would really materialize. Mr. Harding excused the estimated deficit by saying that "such a discrepancy is unavoidable when authorizations of expenditure are being enacted during the process of closing but ways are provided for relatively easy adjustment without added taxation."

Now Secretary Mellon discloses the fact that the budget estimates for the year 1922 are "substantially correct" and while he knows congress cannot avoid the deficit, he flatly declares $300,000,000 must be cut out of the intended expenditures in order to balance the budget. On top of that Mr. Mellon confirms what has been rumored for some time that a heavy shrinkage in tax receipts is imminent and that the estimated deficit may increase still larger when the tax receipts are all in. He holds the business depression as partly responsible and insists that under the circumstances new or extraordinary expenditures are not being thought of for a minute.

The $300,000,000 deficit is made up in this way: The treasury for 1922 amounts to $24,000,000 and for 1923 amounts to $167,000,000 and these figures make no allowance for the $50,000,000 requested by the shipping board to meet claims, $7,000,000 relief to Russia, $5,000,000 to be paid as the first installment to Colombia for the Roosevelt policy in Panama in 1901, and a possible $50,000,000 for additional pay to government employees—a total of $112,000,000 chiefly for 1923 or an exact total of $303,000,000.

The best estimate available to the treasury of the cost of the bonus is approximately $100,000,000 and one hundred dollars of which at least $50,000,000 would fall in the first two years of its operation with varying amounts in the intervening year and an ultimate payment of more than $2,114,000,000 in the twentieth year.

The secretary of the treasury has virtually confirmed the fact that no relief can be expected immediately either on interest or principal from the allies and he insists that, if any does come from abroad it must go by law to pay the existing Liberty bond holders. So the $300,000,000 for the next two years would have to be met by direct taxation or the government would face a deficit of more than one billion dollars a year for the next two years.

ST. PAUL ENTERS INTO WINTER CARNIVAL FUN

CHINA IS READY TO END DISPUTE OVER SHANTUNG

Acceptance of Hughes-Balfour Compromise Now is Merely Matter of Form

PERMITS RAIL PURCHASE

Fear of China Bolting Conference Ended With Controversy Virtually Closed

By A. L. Bradford
By United Press Leased Wire
Washington—The Peking government has asked the Chinese delegation for more details on the "scope" of the Hughes-Balfour compromise scheme for settling the Shantung railway question.

These details have been forwarded; and unless unforeseen complications develop, the delegation expects to announce early next week a final adjustment of this vital problem.

To make a diplomatic showing of not yielding too soon, however, the delegation is claiming that it has "some hesitation" over the latest compromise, centering around the traffic management and accountability of the railroad.

DECIDE TO ACCEPT

China has virtually decided to accept in main the last so-called Hughes-Balfour compromise plan for solution of this problem, a plan which Japan previously had indicated her willingness to accept. High quarters in the Chinese delegation are authorized by this statement.

This seems definitely to clear away the air of oriental mystery and intrigue which has clouded the Shantung negotiations for the past weeks, and also to dismiss the spectre that has recently arisen in Washington of China bolting the conference because of the Shantung question.

PERMIT PURCHASE

As outlined in a United Press dispatch Wednesday, which announced exclusively that the Shantung question "is on the verge of settlement" the plan of settlement is:

First, that China be allowed to purchase the Shantung railroad by deferred payments (it is now definitely established that these payments are to be made with Chinese treasury notes over a period of 15 years, with an option to buy the railroad outright in five years); second, that China appoint a Japanese traffic manager of the railroad and that there be a Japanese and Chinese accountant, each with equal powers.

The Chinese announce that before they formally accept this plan, however, they want a declaration of the Japanese traffic manager that over the Japanese traffic manager there is to be a Chinese directing manager of the railroad.

First, that China be allowed to purchase the Shantung railroad by deferred payments (it is now definitely established that these payments are to be made with Chinese treasury notes over a period of 15 years, with an option to buy the railroad outright in five years); second, that China appoint a Japanese traffic manager of the railroad and that there be a Japanese and Chinese accountant, each with equal powers.

By United Press Leased Wire
Madison—Complaints alleging that propaganda is being circulated over the state in regard to the Wisconsin Cheese Producers' federation will be investigated at a hearing announced by the departments of markets Saturday, at Wausau on Friday, Feb. 3.

Stories to the effect that meat methods of competition were being employed by the cheese dealers of Marathon co. were the cause of complaint. Further action of the department depends upon what evidence is unearthed at this hearing.

Minta Durfee Freely Predicts Her Comedian Husband Will Be Acquitted

By United Press Leased Wire
San Francisco—All testimony in the second trial of Roscoe Arbuckle resulting in the death of Virginia Rappe will be in the hands of the jury by Saturday night, according to the outlook as court convened Saturday.

The prosecution is expected to close its rebuttal Saturday morning. The defense will proceed to a brief rebuttal. A recess will be taken over Monday so Gavin McNab, counsel for Arbuckle, can argue in the Mary Pickford divorce action in Carson City, Nev.

Final address to the jury in the Arbuckle trial will be heard Tuesday. The case is scheduled to go to the jury Tuesday night or Wednesday morning.

"I know Roscoe will be acquitted," his wife, Minta Durfee, predicted Saturday. "Best of all everybody I have met in San Francisco believes he will be too."

Urges Conference On Housing Relief To Aid Jobless And Industry

Washington—A movement for a national conference to solve the nation's housing and high rents problem was started here Saturday.

Senator King, Democrat of Utah, sent a letter to President Harding pleading that he issue a call for delegates from all parts of the country to assemble and find relief for the acute housing situation.

"The president could summon representatives of banking interests, labor and the public who could launch a huge building drive for new construction of homes," King told the United Press in an exclusive interview.

"Bankers would be glad to loan the money to finance such a national project. Representatives of labor would jump at such a chance to employ men who are out of work."

LEGAL BATTERY TO DEFEND MARY'S DIVORCE ACTION

Arguments to Defend Movie Star Begin in Nevada Supreme Court Monday

By United Press Leased Wire
Carson City, Nev.—A new battle over Mary Pickford's divorce from Owen Moore was waged here Monday.

Lawyers were gathered here Saturday to argue in supreme court in a final effort to determine whether the state's suit to annul Moore's divorce, granted nearly two years ago, will go to trial.

STATE DISGRACED

Fowler holds that when Mary obtained the decree from Moore justice miscarried, the dignity of the state was flouted and the good name of Nevada besmirged by the alleged fraudulent methods he claimed Miss Pickford's counsel followed.

If the supreme court following the arguments next week rules Mary must fight before it to determine whether her divorce is legal, the effect may be far reaching, for a jury verdict against her would mean she is the legal wife of Owen Moore, not Douglas Fairbanks.

PAIR 'VAMPED' HIM OF $200; COPS GOT IT BACK

Milwaukee—Two young women are in jail in connection with the "vamping" of $200 from the pockets of their companion, Robert Winter, at a dance hall.

Winter drew $200 from the bank and started out for a good time. He met the girls and after dining with them for some time, they left him. He then discovered that the $200 was gone. He reported it to the police, who took the girls into custody and recovered all but $50 of the "vamped" money.

FREAR IS LEADER IN FIGHT TO STOP BONUS SALES TAX

Powerful Groups in Both Parties to Demand Other Means of Raising Funds

Washington—A powerful group was organizing in the house Saturday to fight the sales tax as a means of raising money to pay the soldiers' bonus.

The same coalition of Republican "independents" and Democrats that overthrew President Harding on the surplus amendment was being reformed to defeat the sales tax.

The determined opposition against the sales tax has broken out suddenly in both houses.

Representative Frear, Wisconsin, leading the Republican opposition to the tax, declared Saturday that between 75 and 100 Republicans already have announced they will join the fight. These include the farm bill members in the house who are solidly arrayed against the sales tax.

KILLS WIFE AND SELF; TRIANGLE CASE IS ENDED

Bohemians End Life of Scandal and Bickerings With Shootings in Home

By United Press Leased Wire
Muskegon, Wis.—The last two sides of an eternal triangle case that started here two years ago were craved Saturday with the suicide of John Swanda, who Friday shot his wife, Sonia, and turned the revolver on himself.

Swanda married Sonia two years ago, shortly after her first husband, Matt Havlak, committed suicide after a row over Swanda, who was employed by Havlak.

CHILD, 6, HIT BY AUTO DIES FROM INJURIES

Fine Dancer $200 In War On Chicago Jazz Craze

Chicago—Jazz music is barbarism revived, Judge Arnold Heap declared Saturday in handing down a decision in morals court fining Julia Rector, a cabaret dancer $200 for presenting an improper performance.

The case, which attracted national wide attention, involved the notorious Entertainers cafe of Chicago, where Miss Rector was employed as a performer.

The decision, handed down by Judge Heap, was awaited by reformers and social workers of the country as an indication of whether music in itself can be immoral and as a precedent in the prosecution of similar cases.

"You can do anything while listening to jazz music," the judge concluded. "The jazz is no dance music. You do not find the activity, the physical and mental exhilaration of it, dance as manifested by our fathers and mothers, where real music was produced by which to dance."

"This case smacks of the barbarism of the jungle. The very music was obscene."

"The evil genius of this place has artfully combined the grossness of primitive sensuality with the glided refinement of modern licentiousness. The shimmy and the music dancer must go."

Judge Heap pointed out that the testimony showed from two hundred to four hundred couples danced on a floor 400 feet square.

"The floor was always crowded," the judge said. "This left a maximum of one person to every square foot of dance floor. They couldn't do anything that even pretended to be dancing. The music played wasn't dance music. The jazz orchestra blared and clanged its tones, but that isn't intended to be dance music."

Cabinet And Farm Bloc Begin Race In Congress To End Farmer's Plight

Parents Die; Indian Youth Saves Babies

By United Press Leased Wire
Fort William, Ont.—Six little Indian children whose parents died of influenza in the northern wilderness, are reported to have reached Watcomb after a thrilling experience.

Atchimio Nantueches, the father, called Atchimio, 15, to his bedside Jan. 13 and gave him $1,200, telling him to save the lives of the five other children. Atchimio mustered 20 miles to the nearest neighbor, John Hingoshi. Together they returned and brought the children out of the wilderness on a sleigh. The bodies of both parents were frozen stiff. The children were chewing raw moose flesh and had burned most of the furniture to keep warm.

CARDINALS IN SERIOUS SPLIT OVER POLITICS

Issue is Whether Vatican Will Become Reconciled With Italian Government

TWO FACTIONS ARE FORMED

Two-thirds Majority is Impossible for Either Merry Del Val or Gasparri

Rome—A compromise candidate will be elected the next supreme pontiff of the Catholic church, it was believed here Saturday.

Italian cardinals who probably will be in the majority, have divided irreconcilably into two groups, neither of which can secure the necessary two-thirds majority at the moment.

The two well defined groups—the intraneigants who would elect Merry Del Val, opposed to reconciliation with Italy and the group favoring Gasparri, cardinal camerlengo, which would effect closer relations with the government, were apparently evenly balanced Saturday, with each seeking to gain strength before the test comes with the beginning of the conclave on Thursday.

Cardinal Gasparri has told his intimate acquaintances that if elected he will take the name "Pope Leo XIV," according to the Popolo Romano.

Charges that the Jesuits were seeking to control the papal elections were indignantly denied by Father Ledochowski, head of that order, known as the "black pope" Saturday.

The "black pope" Del Val group has suggested that Cardinal Gasparri, acting in his capacity as cardinal camerlengo, temporary holder of the papal authority, exceeded his powers when he notified Premier Bonomi of the death of Benedict XV. It is unable to elect Merry Del Val, the intraneigant group was expected to throw its support to Cardinal Laurenti, who also would oppose reconciliation with the state.

BANDIT HOLDS UP TWO MEN BUT GETS ONLY SMALL LOOT

Harry Long and Frank Vietnans Donate $3.60 to Holdup Man

A holdup which netted its perpetrator the gross sum of $3.60 occurred about 7 o'clock Friday evening when a stranger entered the baggage transfer office of Harry H. Long at 627 Morrison st., and forced Mr. Long and Frank Vietnans to hand over all the cash they had in their pockets.

C. B. Tift reported the robbery to the police an hour and a half later, after he had heard of the affair. The robber was described as a man of average size rather shabbily dressed and wearing a black cape. When he entered the office he was masked and held a drawn revolver. He made no attempt to search the men but simply ordered them to give him all the cash. He got $3.60 from Long and 60 cents from Vietnans.

HUGE PROGRAM AWAITS LAWS TO ENFORCE IT

Muscle Shoals Offer and Waterway Project Are Part of Economic Plan

By James T. Kolbert
By United Press Leased Wire
Washington—Administration forces and the congressional farm bloc Saturday laid plans for a race in the enactment of legislation helpful to agriculture in conformity with the program of the agricultural conference.

Insurgents of the conference charged that the administration is guilty of trying to "kidnap the child" by attempting to take the leadership in farm legislation initiated by the farm bloc.

John McSparran, master of the Pennsylvania state grange, stated that the program of the agricultural conference, which completed its work Friday night, contains little that is not already a part of the bloc program. The chief value of the conference, McSparran said, lies in awakening the people of the United States to the true plight of agriculture.

SHAPE PROGRAM

The program as whipped into shape by the conference of 32 representatives of all lines of agriculture, bankers, transportation, millers, implement makers, fertilizer manufacturers and other interests calls for the following outstanding features:

Immediate acceptance by congress of Henry Ford's Muscle Shoals offer.

Completion of the St. Lawrence waterway project.

Reduction of freight rates to the level of August, 1910—about 25 per cent and further reductions as conditions warrant them.

Deflation of transportation and labor. Competitive marketing.

U. S. TO AID EUROPE

Participation by the United States in a conference for economic and financial reconstruction of Europe, constructed taking part in the Genoa conference.

Congressional investigation of some means of stabilizing prices to insure farmers against loss, and greater credit facilities than are now available for agriculture.

Defeat by the conference of the effort to place the delegates on record in favor of repealing the Adamson 8-hour law and the guarantee clause of the Esch-Commins law was interpreted Saturday as the forerunner of closely knit alliance between union labor and the farmer.

BLIZZARD HITS CITIES IN EAST

RAID NETS BIG SUPPLY OF MOON AND INGREDIENTS

Gustave Knoll's Residence is Raided and Still is Brought to Light

Police officers entered the home of Gustave Knoll of 977 Lemnaw-st. Friday afternoon and seized nearly three gallons of "moonshine" and 16 gallons of mash.

Chief George T. Prim and Officers John Duval and Albert P. Deligan went to Knoll's house early in the afternoon and knocked on the back door. No one answered their knock but they heard scurrying footsteps and other suspicious sounds. After they had waited a few seconds for someone to open the door they decided delay was unwise so they walked boldly in without bidding.

In the kitchen a homemade still was boiling merrily over an oil stove near the kitchen sink. However the vessel which had been used to catch the dripping liquor in the sink was missing but the cooler mounted on a board placed across the zinc was still in action. A hasty search uncovered between two and three gallons of liquor hidden in the oven of the kitchen stove. Knoll was when the officers and said nothing except when they asked him to go with them. Then he voiced his objections but after thinking the matter over he put on his coat and went with them to the station.

He was arraigned in Municipal court before Judge A. M. Spencer a short time later and entered a plea of guilty to the charge of having intoxicating liquor in his possession illegally. He was remanded to the county jail to await pronouncement of sentence Saturday.

Judge Spencer imposed an optional fine of $100 and costs of 60 days in the workhouse. Knoll agreed to pay his fine Monday and was released when a relative deposited a $500 certificate to guarantee payment of fine at the time promised. In the arraignment it was learned that Knoll had been out of work and has a family of seven children to support.

FARMERS HELP CAR DRIVERS THRU SNOW

Deep Drifts Make it Difficult to Drive Here From Milwaukee

Karl Schuetter, who purchased a new car at the automobile show at Milwaukee, was nearly four hours Friday afternoon in getting from Fond du Lac to Oshkosh and had to call upon farmers three times for assistance. With the aid of a heavy team of horses one farmer hauled his car half a mile. The condition of the road between Oshkosh and Neenah was such that he made no attempt to get through at night and left the car at Oshkosh from which city it was driven to Appleton Saturday by Harry Comerford.

Mr. Comerford left Milwaukee with the car Friday morning and had no trouble in reaching Fond du Lac because of the lack of snow. He was met at Fond du Lac by the owner who took charge of the car as far as Oshkosh.

One farmer who rendered assistance informed Mr. Schuetter that he helped out six auto drivers that day. The Appleton man found them all reasonable in their charges and one at first refused to accept any remuneration.

WOULD ADVERTISE VALLEY PRODUCTS TO VALLEY PEOPLE

Advertising Club Hears Brief Addresses on Timely Topics

A proposed plan to advertise Appleton and Fox river valley products to the residents of Appleton and the valley so that they will give preference to these home products when making their purchases were described by H. A. Schlitz of Schlitz Brothers in a brief address at the weekly luncheon of Appleton Advertising club this week. Mr. Schlitz also described a proposed survey of the city and valley to show that unemployment here during the period of greatest depression was not nearly as acute as in many other places. If the survey bears out facts which the advertising club now has it is probable the valley will be given considerable publicity on the strength of its employment stability.

The meeting was largely devoted to brief addresses by chairman of committees. H. J. Post of the Pettibone-Prabody Co. discussed the need of truth in advertising; F. G. Moyle of Appleton Press gave an address on the necessity of educating the advertiser in order to eliminate losses suffered because of poor advertising copy and display; Paul O. Nyhus of First National bank, spoke on the value of being a member of the advertising club and the benefits enjoyed by merchants who are members; Ralph Gee, advertising manager of the Post-Crescent, discussed publicity in general.

DRIVE ON ICE FROM NEENAH TO OSHKOSH

Hundreds of automobile drivers are driving over the ice from Neenah to Oshkosh while the concrete road is closed by deep snow. Drivers go on the lake from the end of Wisconsin-ave. at Neenah and return to land at Menominee park in Oshkosh. They drive to the downtown section of the Sawdust city over Irving-st.

The ice road is said to be in fine condition and it is easily possible to drive from 20 to 30 miles an hour all the way. The ice is from 25 to 30 inches thick.

CLUBWOMEN FORM EXCHANGE TO SELL THEIR HANDIWORK

Central Market Will be Established Soon at Appleton Womens Club

As the result of the enthusiastic meeting of the home economics department of Appleton Womens club at the home of Mrs. J. D. Steele, 690 Lawrence, Thursday afternoon, a woman's exchange to be known as the Appleton Womens club exchange will be established in a short time. The idea of the exchange will be to give Appleton women a chance to market their handiwork at a central place and thus make a little pin money.

The home economics department set out to raise enough money to finance its cook book without the aid of local advertising, but it has now changed its plan to have the fund include not only the cook book but the exchange as well. The women who were at the meeting Thursday afternoon will make an effort to bring together enough clever novelties in the way of hand work and sewing to make a creditable showing to be placed at the clubroom in the very near future.

MAY SELL FOODSTUFFS
Many cities have been running a woman's exchange for years where women who embroider, or sew or paint may place their articles for sale. Women who wish to buy these things seek out the exchange from which to purchase them. Many of these exchanges also handle food stuffs. No definite plans have as yet been made about the extent of the exchange here, at first.

Mrs. William Wing was appointed permanent chairman of the food sales which are a part of the money making plan of the department while Mrs. Stephen Roach was made chairman of the waffle luncheon, another novel plan of the department. A tea has also been planned for Feb. 22 to be held at the home of some member of the department.

U. S. OFFERS TO LOAN ROAD TRUCKS

City May Accept Offer to Send Truck Here for Use in Street Work

The state highway commission at Madison has offered to assign government trucks to Appleton under provisions which allow the city to use the trucks during their period of efficiency, later returning them to the highway commission. The offer will be considered at the meeting of the common council next Wednesday evening.

The trucks, including Four Wheel Drives, Packards and other well known makes, can be had with hydraulic hopper attachments suitable for street work. It is brought out in the contracts that the trucks must be used for highway improvement work and not for use in the city street department.

The trucks are on exhibition at West Allis two days each week and it is probable that if the city decides to lease one some of the city officials will be detailed to inspect them before a contract is entered into.

NOTED SPEAKERS AT BREEDERS MEETING

Holstein breeders from Outagamie county and all over the state are now making plans to attend the "Fifty Years of Dairy Progress" exposition which will be held in Madison next Thursday under the direction of the Holstein-Friesian Breeders association.

One hundred delegates representing various county organizations and livestock breeders from every corner of the state will witness the exhibits. The unveiling of a bronze memorial to W. D. Hoard, Wisconsin's first great dairyman, will be one feature of the program. Frank O. Lowden, president of the Holstein-Friesian Breeders Association of America, D. D. Attkin, former president of the same organization, and Henry Wallace, secretary of agriculture, will be the chief speakers.

EAGLE PLANT PREPARING FOR RETURN OF BUSINESS

The Eagle Manufacturing Co., at its annual meeting, reelected A. W. Priest, president, August H. Meyer, vice president, Charles Hagen, general manager, Fred Petersen, secretary, and August Knapp, treasurer. The only change has been elected to directors was that of Henry Reblin, resigned, who was succeeded by William Gruenke.

The plant has been partially shut down for some time and when it resumes operations the chances are in connection with its tractors and feed cutters which have been shipped to all parts of the country it will manufacture machinery other than that used on farms for which its plant is well equipped. Several lines are under consideration.

N-P LEAGUE WILL BACK UP COMINGS

Lieut. Governor Will Be Candidate to Succeed Hall as State Secretary

When Lieut. Gov. George F. Comings enters the race as candidate for the republican nomination for secretary of state at the fall primaries he will have the endorsement and support of the Nonpartisan league, according to Chester C. Platt, editor of the Wisconsin Leader.

Mr. Platt said: "Mr. Comings has not yet announced his candidacy but I know he has consented to run and when he does announce it I am sure he will receive the prompt and hearty endorsement of the Nonpartisan league. In the republican primary and in the election of 1920 Mr. Comings demonstrated his popularity with the voters by a remarkable vote. He has been a tower of strength to the progressive cause in this state and the organized farmers will be delighted to honor him with an advancement."

Reports from Madison make the definite statement that Elmer S. Hall, present secretary of state and former mayor of Green Bay, will be a candidate for congressman and this will open the way for Mr. Comings to announce his candidacy for the secretary's office. Both of these men were elected to state office for the first time in November, 1920.

ONLY 150 DOGS ARE LICENSED THUS FAR

Up to the present time only 150 owners have paid their dog licenses. There are still 350 to be heard from who are given until Feb. 28 to pay. If they do not do so by that time their dogs will be confiscated by the police.

The collection of other taxes at the city hall is progressing favorably according to Fred E. Bachman, city treasurer. The extension of time to Feb. 28 of the payment of taxes without the addition of an extra fee has relieved the crowded condition of the treasurer's office.

The average taxes are slightly lower than they were a year ago and it is only at long intervals that complaints are registered. The majority of property owners now make a practice of saving up the amount of their taxes during the year and are no longer pressed for funds at collection time.

Outagamie County Soon Will Have Committee To Save Its Beauty Places

County Superintendent of Schools Will Assist in Organization of Rural Planning Committee Here.

County Superintendent Florence Jenkins is going to lend her influence to encourage the administration of the state rural planning law in Outagamie county.

The first step toward this end will be the organization of a county rural planning committee to direct the work. According to the provisions of the law, this committee must consist of the chairman of the county board, the chairman of the county highways committee, the county superintendent of schools and two others, either men or women.

The chairman of the county board would act as chairman of this committee. The members of the committee who are appointed by the members designated by law will hold office for two and four years respectively and after that time they shall serve four years. All terms for appointed members will expire July 1 and vacancies in the office of appointed members shall be filled for the unexpired term by such committee.

NO COMPENSATION
To serve on the committee, members must own property in the county and must have a general interest and knowledge of rural planning. They will serve without compensation except for actual expenses incurred while acting officially as a member of the committee.

The main idea behind the new law, it is said, is the preservation of the natural beauty spots of the state as public playgrounds for the generations to come. When making the law legislators realized that the scenic recreation spots in the state are rapidly passing into the hands of the rich and it was decided to do something to give the public a chance to purchase these places before they pass into private hands for all time. The rural planning law was the result.

SEEK TO IMPROVE MAIL SERVICE TO SOUTHERN CITIES

New Train May Carry Mail if Business Warrants, Kell-er Told

Appleton postoffice along with all other later offices between Green Bay and Chicago have been asked to make a count of outgoing mail received between the departures of the last afternoon and the first morning trains to Chicago, with a view to supplement present schedules.

If there is sufficient mail to warrant the service, train No. 126 on the Chicago and Northwestern line running from Green Bay to Chicago will carry closed pouches, leaving here at 10 o'clock. Under present schedules mail to Chicago leaves Appleton in the afternoon and again at 2 o'clock in the morning. Letters for Chicago mailed after the departure of the afternoon train do not reach Chicago until late in the morning and are not delivered till the following afternoon. With the proposed additional service letters mailed up till 9:30 in the evening would arrive in Chicago for delivery the following morning.

The new arrangement would mean quicker mail service not only to Chicago but to all connections out of Chicago.

NATION CAN AND SHOULD PAY THE BONUS

The indications are that the administration will disregard Secretary Mellon's objections to adjusted compensation to the war veterans and that congress will pass and the president approve a bonus bill at the present session. Mr. Fordney, chairman of the house ways and means committee, announces that a bill providing for adjusted compensation will be prepared by his committee and will be ready for submission within the next two or three weeks. It was to Mr. Fordney that Secretary Mellon addressed a formal communication pointing out reasons why, in his judgment, it would be inadvisable for the government at this time to undertake to raise money for payment to the soldiers.

Mr. Mellon's argument was that general business conditions and the state of government finances would not permit the addition of any further burdens in the shape of taxation without seriously and adversely affecting a return to better times. This has been Mr. Mellon's position all along, but he has not convinced the country that he is right. Unquestionably the ultra-conservative interests support his view, and these include that class of American business which is fortified with abundant resources and has taken enormous profit in recent years and for a long period before the war. It is this class that makes the loudest cry against policies which inconvenience it temporarily or which cause impairment of profit.

While we recognize the fact that governmental policies may be so regulated as to impose impossible burdens on commerce and industry, and that there is a point beyond which taxation cannot go, we do not believe that point has been reached in the United States. We do believe that excess profits and certain other forms of taxation are highly detrimental to business recovery. Because of unsound tendencies they produce they are injurious alike to business and the people. However, so far as wealth itself is concerned and the ability of the nation to meet expenditures such as will be necessary in the case of adjusted compensation, we think there is ample leeway without producing harmful consequences. In other words, the resources of America are sufficient to discharge its obligations to the soldiers, provided only the money is raised in the proper way. Certainly the first duty of the nation is to those men, and it is a duty which transcends all others of a material character.

Hundreds of millions of dollars can be saved to the taxpayers by economy. Reduction of appropriations for military purposes alone could be made to pay the bonus. The taxation of tax-exempt securities would go a long way toward footing the bill. The rectifying of many abuses, which are either a burden to all wealth or a discrimination against the people at large, would supply the money. Perhaps a sales tax is the most reasonable and most practical way to raise the necessary revenue for an appropriation in behalf of the war veterans. If the money is to be derived from taxation this is certainly the fairest and cleanest method. Mr. Mellon may be technically right about the delicacy of the financial situation, but he is oversensitive, we think, about the condition of the country and does not take into consideration its real capacity for meeting emergencies of this kind. What the people of the United States have to do in the way of national improvements and in the way of national obligations, they can do. Adjusted compensation to the men who fought in the World War is a prime duty and the duty ought to be discharged without delay.

SCHOOLS AND WATERWAYS INSTEAD OF SHIPS

Education is an excellent substitute for militarism. This will be the conclusion of Japan in accommodating itself to modern ideals of peace and acquiescing agreeably to disarmament plans.

The economies resulting from naval vacation will be appropriated, according to Premier Takashashi, to constructive purposes. The surplus thus accumulated will be set aside for building primary schools and improving navigable waterways.

Other nations will find out to their satisfaction that the long-taught theory is true that money spent in building engines and implements of destruction is capital whose interest is misery and debt. Money saved for bettering education, commerce and fundamental conditions is a progressive investment, the tendency of which is to increase its own values and multiply public benefit.

THE FARMERS, MUSCLE SHOALS AND THE WATERWAY

Two important national projects were up for approval before the agricultural conference in Washington this week, the St. Lawrence waterway improvement and the offer of Henry Ford to take over Muscle Shoals. Powerful interests sought to line up the farmers of the country against both propositions. New York, New England and other Atlantic coast states are fighting the St. Lawrence canal, while the fertilizer and other corporate interests are opposing Mr. Ford.

It is to the credit of the farmers that they were not misled by the arguments of special interests and that the committee to which the questions were referred endorsed both undertakings. No group of the American people will benefit more from the lakes-to-the-ocean waterway than our farmers. The mid-continent is the great agricultural producing section and the lowering of transportation costs in the markets of the world which will follow the building of the canal will be of incalculable value to these producers.

There has been a deal of opposition to Ford's offer for Muscle Shoals but most of it is selfishness or prejudice. Mr. Ford is the only one who has thus far shown genuine purpose and capacity to open up the power possibilities of the Tennessee river and the potential wealth of the Tennessee mountains. Mr. Ford is actively opposed by the National Fertilizer Association, whose propaganda against the deal claims that the cost of producing sulphate of ammonia at Muscle Shoals will be $68 per ton as against an average wholesale price in 1921 of $48 per ton. It is charged that Ford cannot make the plant pay except at prohibitive prices and that therefore it is not wise for the government to advance money to complete its construction.

If what the fertilizer manufacturers say is true, they have nothing to fear from Ford competition and they should not be exercised about the failure of his enterprise. Knowing Mr. Ford's genius for organization and economical production, the public will prefer to believe that he is fully competent to operate this plant and produce sulphate of ammonia at a price that will save the farmers large sums in the fertilizer they buy and at the same time make the investment profitable.

Limiting Submarines

The resolution of naval committee of Washington conference is latest reflection of the world's question. "What is being done about things in late war which are never to happen again?" The utter disregard of international law in the German submarine campaign against commerce was one of these things. Everyone is agreed that this should be prohibited under the strongest guarantees civilized nations are able to effect.

The part in the resolutions is that which reads: "The signatory powers recognize the practical impossibility of using submarines as commerce destroyers without violating, as they were violated in the war of 1914-18, the requirements universally accepted by civilized nations for the protection of the lives of neutrals and noncombatants."

This is the best part because it says clearly that the preceding expressions, which might otherwise be given differing interpretation, mean giving up submarine barbarities.

Having gone thus far, the conference has gone as far as The Hague and Geneva conventions when they laid down, time after time, rules governing warfare. What became of those rules the world knows. What the present conference still needs to do is to put in its agreement a guarantee that there will be united action against any nation disregarding these rules. That is the whole case. If nations mean to act in the event of future violations, they can by saying they mean to act, preventing any government not hopelessly insane from attempting violations. — MILWAUKEE JOURNAL (Ind.)

CHICKEN ASTHMA

Everybody has heard the yarn about the woman who never could be in the room or even in the same house where there was a cat without suffering distress of breathing, in fact an attack of asthma. Nearly all of us have smiled at the notion, having in mind the well known hysterical tendency of the more trustworthy and gullible sex. Now and then, we have been annoyed to learn, a member of the noble male sex has used this same silly stunt quite seriously and not a ruffie or flourish about him, so that we have reluctantly admitted that some rough male persons do have the hysterics.

I told of egg asthma here a little while ago. Egg asthma really happens, just as certainly, and for much the same reason as lobster or strawberry hives really happen to certain susceptible individuals. Cat asthma really happens and it is immaterial whether the victim be of a hysterical temperament or phlegmatic as pitch. Chicken asthma really happens. One must perforce accept the truths demonstrated by science, with Christian fortitude.

A woman who suffered with asthma for 20 years. It was rather unusual to find that there was no history of asthma, eczema, hives or giant hives (angioneurotic edema) in other members of her family. The attacks were severe, and the intervals were very short, never with complete relief. She ascribed the trouble—as usual—to dry weather, but she also fainted out and exertion helped bring on seizures. She had noticed, too, that whenever she cleaned a chicken in the table her hands itched, and whenever she ate eggs she had a peculiar tingling sensation in her mouth. She kept three canaries, and suffered an attack of asthma every time she cleaned a cage. She lived near a market where chickens were sold, and every time she passed that market or visited it, she had an attack.

On testing for sensitization, it was found that her skin reacted to many solutions representing chicken meat, chicken feathers and goose feathers, as well as egg white and egg yolk. Then pillows and mattresses containing chicken or goose feathers were removed from her room. The patient was given a course of hypodermic injections of gradually increasing doses of chicken feather protein extract, a homeopathic dose at first, and after 20 doses only about 10 drops of a one to five hundred dilution—true homeopathic treatment, and by a doctor who would throw anybody smaller than himself, out of his office who would dare to call him any kind of "path." After the eighth dose the woman's asthma ceased. In 10 months she has had no further trouble.

This sensitization to certain proteins in certain individuals is not yet fully understood. We know that the remarkable effects of various proteins in such susceptible individuals (asthma, hay fever, hives, sometimes eczema) are produced only when the unchanged or undigested protein directly enters the blood, whether thru absorption in other ways than the digestive tract, or incomplete conversion of the protein to an assimilable form in digestion.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

What is the substance and in what proportion mixed with salt in the salt cellar is a bone and tooth builder? Must it be added before the food is cooked? (Mr. E. M.)

Answer—I know of no such substance, but I have suggested in this column the mixing of calcium carbonate (powdered prepared chalk or powdered egg shell) with the salt in the salt cellar, equal amounts of salt and calcium carbonate, as recommended by Professor Sherman of Columbia university, to supply a possible deficiency of lime in the average diet. It is immaterial whether this be added to food before or after cooking.

To Reduce

Kindly let me know how to develop arms and limbs and reduce the stomach. (Mrs. M. P. S.)

Answers—There are two reducers, and only two, I can recommend, and they are diet and exercise.

Warts

What is good for warts growing along the side of the hand and little finger? (K. M. C.)

Answer—Painting the wart with a solution of 30 grains of salicylic acid in half an ounce of flexible collodion daily, will often prove successful. When there are several warts it is better to have your physician remove them.

Specific Gravity

I am 15 pounds underweight. I am 68 inches tall and weigh 139 pounds. A friend of mine is two inches shorter than I am and smaller in every measurement of his body, yet he weighs 150 pounds. How can that be? (R. A. X.)

Answer—Muscle has a greater specific gravity than fat or grease. Body weight is, after all, far from an individual's specific gravity rather than the relationship of age, height and weight. A great many young men drafted from chair or office jobs and forced to take some exercise daily in the army gained some 10 to 12 pounds in weight while actually training down in measurements. The added weight represented new muscle tissue replacing the slacker fat.

TODAY'S POEM

By Berton Bralley

BREAKFAST IS SERVED

Fruit and coffee and a bit of toast—
That's your breakfast? It's a thin, pale ghost—
Ghost of breakfast for a winter's day;
I want something I can pack away;
I want fruit maybe and some oatmeal, then
I want eggs from a full-sized hen;
Fried potatoes such as mother makes,
Coffee, sirup and some buckwheat cakes!

Wake up early in a nice warm bed,
Ought to jump out, but I drowse instead;
Finally arise with a sleepy frown,
Run across the room, put the window down!
Blood gets going and I wash and dress;
Have I got an appetite? Well, I guess not—
Bring on your chops or your T-bone steaks,
Bring on your coffee and your buckwheat cakes!

"Continental breakfasts" I have never tried,
I like bulk in my old inside;
When the winter winds round the house are whining
I prefer a stomach with a nice warm lining;
Bring on your vittles, let me start to eat,
Bring on the mush and the granulated wheat;
Make it snappy—let me take a dash
At poached eggs resting on the corned beef hash;
What do I care if my waistline breaks,
Bring on the coffee and the buckwheat cakes!

Resume of American and Foreign Newspaper Opinion

Financing the Soldier Bonus

"This session of Congress will see the passage of a Soldier Bonus bill," is the unequivocal statement of the PHILADELPHIA PUBLIC LEDGER (Ind.), and it seems to be generally accepted by newspapers that the prediction is correct. "The merits of the bonus," says the PITTSBURGH SUN (Dem.) seem not to be taken into consideration by the Administration," and it expresses the prevailing Democratic sentiment when it says further that "the chief desire at Washington seems to be to satisfy the veterans, who as a potential political power are not to be scoffed at, and to delude the taxpayers generally into thinking the bonus is costing them nothing." In fact the SIOUX CITY JOURNAL (Rep.) finds "the Republicans in Congress between the devil and the deep sea on this proposition, damned if they do and damned if they don't." The NEW YORK TIMES (Ind. Dem.) stigmatizes the proposed legislation as a "bribe" to the soldier vote to save the Republicans from losing their defeat next fall," but granting that the movement may be "largely political," the LANSING STATE JOURNAL (Ind.) suggests that "in as much as numerous popular tests disclose that the voters are for the bonus in their own states, those who are hoping for election this coming fall can hardly be blamed for taking the stand they do."

But "the bonus question is loaded," as the PHILADELPHIA PUBLIC LEDGER goes on to say. President Harding has made it unmistakably clear that he will not approve bonus legislation that does not carry with it a definite means for raising the money appropriated, and the NEW YORK POST (Ind.) is sure that "the country will thoroughly approve this demand that Congress shall not shift its responsibility." Although as the RICHMOND TIMES DISPATCH (Dem.) puts it, "legislators with more than judgment would be raising the country that there would be no difficulty about raising the bonus money," there still remains to be devised a concrete working plan toward that end. Three plans, the SPRINGFIELD UNION (Rep.) tells us, have been proposed, each of which, incidentally, "has a few friends and more enemies." These are: first, the "First" and "Second" of bonds up to the sum required; second, the use of interest payments on the eleven billion dollar foreign debt to our government; third, a special tax levy, for which there have been two suggestions, a sales tax and a tax on light wines and beer.

Most of the editorial discussion has been upon the second of these proposals, and debate was becoming exceedingly lively when the President voiced his disapproval of the scheme in such manner as to make its adoption unlikely. If, as the CHICAGO NEWS (Ind.) suggests, the proposal to pay the bonus out of the soldiers' share of the American debt is "in the nature of official balloons launched to test the winds of public sentiment," the reaction must have been decisive, for the newspaper friends of the proposition are few indeed. The SOUTH BEND TRIBUNE (Ind. Rep.) sees "poetic justice" in such an arrangement, and the soldiers' share of the debt "for the cause in behalf of which the debts were contracted," and "both form part of the contribution this country makes toward winning the war," therefore it is fitting that "the returns from the one should be devoted to manifesting appreciation of the other."

The BUREAU OF EXPENSES (Ind.) says that "there will be no objection" to such use of payments on the loans once "they begin to come in," and the EL PASO TIMES (Dem.) while granting this view of financing the bonus "may not be the best method," feels nonetheless that "if such a measure were passed it would be a formal and definite acknowledgment that the country intended to pay the bonus eventually."

But most of the opinion coincides more closely with the declaration of the NEW YORK WORLD (Dem.) that "a more vicious, a more mischievous proposal has never been made." By promising "to devote the interest of the World War bonds to the major part of the debt to a bonus," the hopes "to placate business while at the same time quieting the service men until after another Congress is chosen," since the Republican leaders are well aware that they cannot pay a bonus by means of taxation, because the business leaders that support the Republican party will not stand a general increase in taxes.

Even if the money received from foreign nations "is applied to the soldiers' bonus instead of the Liberty bond account" as required by Liberty loan legislation, who asks the GRAND RAPIDS PRESS (Ind.), "will have to retire the Liberty bonds?" The objection which it gives is, "What American people—by taxes." What ever machinery is adopted, it must still be borne in mind, as many writers in accord with the INDIANAPOLIS NEWS (Ind.) insist, that "the money will come from the American people, including the soldiers themselves," for "directly or indirectly it will have to come out of taxes." If members of Congress "feel that they must vote for bonus legislation in order to secure their return to the House or Senate," the SPOKANE SPOKESMAN REVIEW (Ind. Rep.) holds that "the country should face the fact that they should be frankly in the coming campaign and be compelled to admit to the voters that the immediate tax burden is going to be heavier by reason of the bonus," for "nothing can change the fact" that the WHEELING INTELLIGENCER (Rep.) declares, "it will be heavy."

The sales tax method hasn't many editorial friends either. The PHILADELPHIA BULLETIN (Ind. Rep.) supports it, but desires that it be made "general instead of selective" as proposed. By this means the bonus will be raised, the WICHITA EAGLE (Ind.) remarks, "by taking a good portion of it away from the former soldier, and the rest of it from his neighbors." — "farmers, wage earners, housewives," the OMAHA WORLD HERALD (Ind.) adds, "who have already suffered severely from the calamity of war, and whose sufferings are growing greater from day to day."

When France and America Were Friends

Paris. — Denys Cochin, of the French Academy, writing in FIGARO, gives a reminiscence of the days when America and France were better friends than they are today perhaps. It was in 1914 and the "miracle of the Marne" had not occurred.

"We have just been sending our great military men and our great statesmen over the ocean to the United States," says the writer. "Marshal Foch was greeted over there by many of the soldiers he commanded on the side of Atlantic. M. Briand had the right to declare that the trip was worth while. We must think of the many opportunities which this trip provided. Hughes' great historical words would not have been spoken without this happy voyage. They could only be pronounced in an atmosphere of certain victory and sure friendship."

"But the cost of our politeness to the United States will be well justified if we remember that in the critical days when the fate of the Marne was not yet decided, the United States wished to be sure of being well represented and in the first days of September sent three ambassadors to Paris instead of only one."

There was Mr. Sharp, official representative, Mr. Myron Herrick who had not yet given up his post, and then Robert Bacon, our poor dear Bacon, former ambassador who has now left this world where he made so many friends.

"How was it Bacon came to complete the trio of ambassadors? This is the story that I heard in Bordeaux soon after the government had gone there to see if it could be of any use in the ministry of national defence, and to look after the powder magazines which were being removed from Paris. I arrived just in time to find the parliamentary session closed and so there was no sense in remaining in Bordeaux. I left then in an automobile belonging to the artillery to hasten the removal of the powder magazines from the neighborhood of Paris, and set out for Chartres."

"It was a picturesque sight on the road," M. Cochin tells us, "hundreds of motor cars with luggage on top, and driving soldiers. I ran to the Colonne and said, 'I'm a member of Parliament.' So am I, he answered and handed me his card: Sir Mark Sykes."

"He said: 'I can't let you pass. A platoon of hussars have just gone into that wood that you see in the right of the road. We're waiting for the soldiers and the Chartres police who came up on his little gray pony declared it was impossible, that his men would have told him. A quarter of an hour elapsed when another car going in the direction of Paris appeared on the scene. It was stopped also by the English and Bacon got out of it. I ran to him and said, 'What had happened. He spoke to Sir Mark with more authority and in better English than I could and obtained permission to go as quickly as possible as far as the wood; we should see... My chauffeur and our soldiers got their arms ready and Bacon got up with me. The first car. Next to him, and soon as we were a few feet away from the English we clapped our hands and ordered the chauffeur to drive as quickly as possible. Not a single lance came out of the wood. As it happened they were Belgian lancers who had been seen there. Thank God, the Germans were still far away."

"I took the way without hindrance and I took Bacon to the hotel Crillon before ten o'clock that same evening. And that is how I know concludes the writer, "that when the battle of the Marne was at its height and the end was still undecided, the United States was represented in Paris by three ambassadors."

The Magnet in Industry

London.—Working either as a heavy-duty crane to lift a weight of twenty-five tons or as a broom for sweeping up scraps from the factory floor, the electric magnet has become the most important servant in many of the factories, says the LONDON OBSERVER, which gives the following interesting information concerning man's accomplishments in harnessing electricity to meet his needs:

"At first the engineer chiefly used these wonderful weight-lifters for carrying iron and steel and for moving storage piles. Now they are used for breaking up imperfect castings by dropping heavy weights on them, for holding sheets of iron in position while being riveted in the construction of ships, for removing heated metals from furnaces, and as a broom for sweeping up large and small iron and steel scraps from the factory floor."

"Half a dozen kegs of nails may be travelling through the air at a modern work-shop, held by magnetic lines of force, despite the wooden coverings of the kegs. Even two or three men sometimes lifted from the ground on a sheet of metal by means of the magnet. They are, of course, operated entirely by electricity. Within the magnet are coils of wire, along which the current travels at the will of the operator. By the simple operation of opening a switch or of causing the magnet to turn on or off, causing the magnet to pick up a weight or release it."

Suspenders and Evening Clothes

Many features of our evening clothes are a just the result of tradition. Those two buttons in the back, for instance, were put there in the days when gentlemen buttoned up the tails of their coats as they went to the party on horseback.

But suspenders are no tradition.

They're there because nothing else will make the trousers hang well.

So, if you're a careful dresser, why not apply the same principle to your everyday clothes?

We've got the best ones made, domestic and imported from Europe. Try out a pair and see if they do not improve your appearance.

Meet "Sherlock Ohms"

San Francisco. — "Sherlock Ohms" will be the scientific detective of tomorrow.

Such is the latest declaration of Dr. Albert A. Abrams, noted scientist and physician, who has attracted international attention through diagnosing diseases of persons thousands of miles away by means of a single drop of blood and through employment of the blood cell in setting parentage disputes.

But with the perfection of the oscilloscope, announced here, Dr. Abrams takes a step even more startling.

This intricate electrical device Abrams says, cannot only reveal all human emotions, diagnose disease, translate blood specimens into life stories—but it can assume clairvoyant powers if provided with a single fragment of handwriting.

POLICE MAY USE IT
Realizing the future value such an instrument would have to lawyers and police, Dr. Abrams' is about to make his first public demonstration of its possibilities to the San Francisco Bar Association and police department.

From a bit of handwriting, say those who have watched tests, it has been possible to trace the nationality of the writer, the writer's state of health, his approximate age and, in a general sort of way, his characteristics.

The revolutionary character of such a device in disputes over the mental condition of the signer of a will, in the search for a forger, is readily seen.

ROAD BUILDING TRACTOR IS TO BE BUILT HERE

Fox River Tractor Company Invents New Machine for Highway Work

Fox River Tractor Co. is about to put a new tractor on the market designed expressly for road work. It is to be heavier than the one the company at present manufactures, weighing in the neighborhood of 3,500 pounds, and will have a slower speed than its present tractor.

The patterns of the new tractor will be completed as soon as Erwin Saiberlich returns from the road school at Madison which has been in session all week. His object in attending the school is to get all the ideas he can from road contractors throughout the state and embody them in the new machine.

The need of a tractor designed particularly for road work was called to the attention of the company last fall when it exhibited its tractor at several fairs in this part of the country. The company could have made several sales to road contractors, had its tractor been heavier and of a slower speed. For this kind of work the road men claimed they need a machine with especially heavy drive wheels and slow speed besides an abundance of power.

The work of manufacturing the new machine will begin early next month so that they can be had when road work opens the coming spring. The company will have an almost clear field for its invention.

WATERFOOL SEASON CLOSES ON JAN. 31

The season on waterfowl is drawing to a close. January 31 is the last day on which wild ducks and geese, coots, gallinules and Wilson snipe or Jack-snipe may be hunted anywhere in the United States under the federal law which prescribes seasons for migratory game birds.

This law, which is administered by the bureau of biological survey of the United States department of agriculture, provides, however, that the carcasses of birds killed during the open season may be possessed for an additional period of ten days following the end of the season if not prohibited by state or local laws.

SPENT HALF HER TIME IN BED

Farmer's Wife Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her a Well Woman

Carter's Creek, Tenn. — "Three years ago I was almost an invalid. I spent half of my time in bed, being afflicted with a trouble which women are apt to have. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I am a well woman now and have been for two years. I can work as well as any one who is younger and as I am a farmer's wife I have plenty to do for I cultivate my own garden, raise many chickens and do my own housework. You may publish this letter as I am ready to do anything to help women as I have been so well and happy since my troubles are past." — Mrs. E. T. Galloway, Carter's Creek, Tenn.

Most women find plenty to do. If they are upset with some female ailment and troubled with such symptoms as Mrs. Galloway had, the smallest duty seems a mountain. If you find it hard to keep up, if you are nervous and irritable, without ambition and out of sorts generally, give the Vegetable Compound a trial.

Music Memory Contest NO. 10

RICHARD WAGNER
German Composer of Middle Nineteenth Century

Wilhelm Richard Wagner (1813-1883) was the greatest modern opera composer. Wagner returned to the first operative principles, that music, drama and interpreter should be of equal importance. He always wrote his own librettos. He used individual themes to describe his characters and dramatic incidents, and also used instruments to represent characters. He replaced the Overture with the Prelude, thus preparing the audience for the action which followed.

His greatest operas are: "Rienzi," "Flying Dutchman," "Tannhauser," "Lohengrin," "Ring of the Nibelung."

The great prize song of German music was written by Wagner while in Paris, an exile from his native land. It is the most popular aria from Wagner's one comic opera, which tells us of the customs and manners of the Meistersingers of Nurnberg in the sixteenth century. In the last act of the opera takes place the song contest, which occurs on the banks of the river Pegnitz, outside of the town of Nurnberg. By the singing of this song, the young Walter von Stolzing wins the contest and the hand of Eva, the maiden he loves.

This selection is recorded by the following companies: Edison, 82117; Victor, 55067.

The great prize song of German music was written by Wagner while in Paris, an exile from his native land. It is the most popular aria from Wagner's one comic opera, which tells us of the customs and manners of the Meistersingers of Nurnberg in the sixteenth century. In the last act of the opera takes place the song contest, which occurs on the banks of the river Pegnitz, outside of the town of Nurnberg. By the singing of this song, the young Walter von Stolzing wins the contest and the hand of Eva, the maiden he loves.

CARLOAD OF PAPER SENT BY EXPRESS

The first carload of paper shipped out of Appleton by express in several years was attached to the 3:34 south-bound train Friday afternoon and was destined for New York. The shipment was made in a regular baggage car and will reach its destination Monday.

The car was thoroughly inspected by railway officials before it left here and will be attached to passenger trains the entire distance. The expense is considerably greater than if the shipment had been made by freight.

It is only at long intervals that express shipments in carload lots are made to or from Appleton. Several years ago a carload of machinery was shipped to a local firm by express and a year prior a carload of horses arrived here from one of the western states.

Interest In Stage Career Wanes And Maude Adams Turns Inventor

By Ruth Abeling

Schenectady, N. Y. — It was a red brick building on a side street here, in appearance a cross between a storehouse and a church, in which I found what Maude Adams, of "Peter Pan" fame, calls her "studio."

There are thin signs, "Garage," "Cars Repaired," on the outside. No hint of Maude Adams, former Broadway headliner.

It was on the top floor of an old fashioned house on another side street that I found Miss Adams, her secretary, Miss Boynton, and her housekeeper.

STAGE INTEREST WANED

With the death of her close friend and manager, Charles Frohman, who went down on the Lusitania, Miss Adams' interest in her own stage career waned. Of late she has been rotating between the red brick studio-laboratory and her top floor apartment.

She devotes practically all of her time experimenting with light and color with a view to movie reproduction in colors.

Occasionally, perhaps once in six months, she goes to her apartment at St. Regis Convent, New York.

Old friends are aiding her in her color experiments — friends who worked with her to get lighting effects while she was on the stage.

Lyman Clark, an attaché of the office of M. P. Rice, vice president of the General Electric Company, is her right-hand man.

"When Miss Adams needs a certain kind of light Mr. Clark hustles around and gets it for her," says Rice.

PARTIALLY SUCCESSFUL

The interior of the Adams studio is arranged like a small theater. In front and about two feet below the level of a small stage is a very powerful electric light which illuminates the stage for photography.

In the first test Miss Adams made she used real grass, flowers and foliage. The test film was sent to New York and tried out. It is undeviated her first experiment in color reproducing was partially successful.

"POLICEMAN CAN'T BE A CHRISTIAN"

So Says Converted Marion Officer, Who Says He Must Resign from Force

Special to the Post-Crescent

Marion, O. — "I don't hold anything against the Marion police force, but I don't think a man can be a good Christian and be a policeman anywhere."

Roy D. Brown, who made that declaration, resigned from the Marion police force after he became converted in a revival conducted at the Holy Nazarene church here.

"I've got to do it," Brown told Police Chief James W. Tompson. "I am just following the dictates of the Lord and want to be square with Him and my fellow Christian workers."

Brown served as an uptown patrolman from February to December. He served in the World War and came to this city at the close of the war. He is 20 married and has one child, a girl of four.

"No, no man can be a good Christian and serve on a police force and do the things that the head of the department expects him to do and the things that the people expect him to do. I don't mean that a man can't be honest, and be a policeman," Brown said. "But there are so many things a policeman has to do that don't square with my newborn conscience. I see things differently now. I don't think it's right to arrest a man unless you think it's right."

"Yes, there is no doubt that today of Jesus Christ came back and said he was the savior he would be arrested and thrown into prison; no more policing work for me."

Since quitting the force Brown has been unable to secure work, but he is confident that he will not be without work long. "Any man who is willing to do an honest day's toil for an honest day's wage ought not to have to loaf long."

LETTERS TO LOVERS

A Real Helpmate

By Winona Wilcox

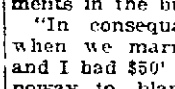

It need not rob a single veteran of an atom of appreciation if once in a while we give a little thought to what some of the wives of ex-soldiers are accomplishing.

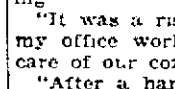

Thousands of these brides are playing a brave part in a troublous time. The wife of one ex-soldier sends the following charming story of her practical experiment in carrying on two jobs, housekeeping and a paid employment, in order that her husband may follow out his big ambition.

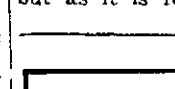

"My husband was a student when he enlisted. Between the date of his return from France and our marriage he underwent three operations. I did all in my power to help him endure his suffering in hospitals, and his tedious delays and disappointments in the business world.

"In consequence of his sickness when we married he had but $150 and I had $50. Certainly he was in a bad way. I had no money to help him, but he had periods of depression because he felt he had not been fair to me when he asked me to marry, as we did on almost nothing.

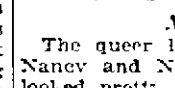

"It was a risk but I kept on with my office work and added to it the care of our cozy home."

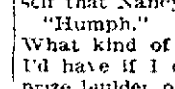

"After a hard day at the office, I undertake work outside of it, there for it is only fair to print some of the exceptions."

A Mystery

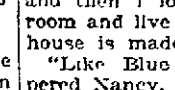

The queer looking creature that Nancy and Nick had discovered looked pretty sour when he heard that it was his house and not himself that Nancy admired.

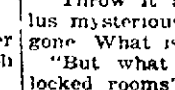

"Humph," he grunted. "House? What kind of a house do you think I'd have if I didn't build it? I'm the prize builder of the Land of the Wiggles. I'm Mr. Nautilus."

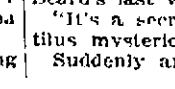

"Oh, we've heard of you," said Nick. "Isn't there a poem about you?"

"I believe so," answered Mr. Nautilus proudly.

"But why are you building?" asked Nancy, curiously. "Your house looks so lovely and smooth and perfect. Isn't it finished?"

"It's never finished," answered Mr. Nautilus. "Every little while I build a new room larger than the last one and then I lock the door of the old room and live in the new room. My house is made up of locked rooms."

GO TO SCHOOL WITH YOUR SONS IF YOU WOULD STAY YOUNG

Grandmother is Classmate of Sons in School—Feels Age Slipping

Liberty, Mo. — Would you stay young? Would you be happy? Would you banish the bugbear of loneliness?

Sounds like the leading words of an advertisement for cold cream or safety razors.

All wrong — they are simply the questions which Mrs. Mary A. Church, grandmother and college student, answers.

Mrs. Church, mother of five, grandmother of four and fellow classmate of two of her sons in the freshman class of William Jewell College here, has a new philosophy.

Attend college with young persons and you will find yourself growing young, she says.

In the few months she has been rubbing elbows with her own and other boys in the college classrooms she has found the answer to the three questions above.

"Drop the habits of older persons and go to school!"

Mrs. Church wears the little green freshman cap and observes all the rites of college freshmen.

"I felt myself slipping," says she. "I knew I was laying a finger on me. My husband, a lecturer, was away from home a great deal. A great loneliness came upon me."

"I discussed the situation with my husband."

"And then I entered college with my boys."

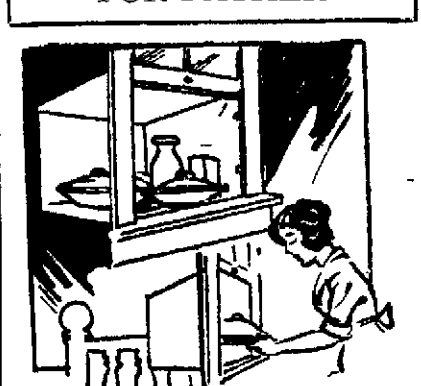

"Age is slipping off my shoulders and I haven't felt so young in years. I no longer am lonely. I haven't time to be. Then there's the companionship of my boys. We are in the same classes and study together."

"My son Cary is 20 years old and James is 18. My daughter, Marjorie, is 12 and well able to help with the housework which we do easily after class hours."

Mrs. Church has two married daughters.

She is studying English, French, history of western Europe and appreciation of music.

A simple way to avoid this is to build a box that fits just outside one of the kitchen windows. Arrange it so you can open the window and put in, or take out, food and drink that must be kept in the cold.

It comes from — Latin "decrepitus", noiseless, because old people walk about silently.

Companion word — decrepit. It is used this way — "Since he became 70 his decrepitude has increased."

COAL STOVE EXPLODES AND DESTROYS HOME

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Butler, farmers near Royallton, was destroyed when their coal stove exploded early in the morning. Accumulation of gas was the cause.

Mr. and Mrs. Butler were barely able to escape with their lives. The loss was in excess of $2,000.

Polly and Paul--and Paris

Chapter 23—Speeding Up

BY ZOE BECKLEY

"Come on, dear, they're signaling us to join them at their table. Let's go over. After all, Violet's a good sort and the man with her looks right enough. What do you say?"

"I say yes, let's." A warmth had come into Polly's veins. The golden room, the scent of flowers, the music, the delicious food and the little taste of wine Paul had insisted on, made her blood move quickly. She felt well-dressed and confident. Life sang.

Miss Rand greeted them cordially, especially Paul. She presented her friend, "Monsieur Barry—I call him 'Monsieur' because he has adopted France as his native land," laughed Violet.

"France adopted my father before I had any say in the matter," he answered her, but he looked at Polly. "My father was French," he went on, "and my mother American. She came from the state you call Indiana. I always pictured it as being brimful of Indians."

Polly laughed and felt instantly friendly.

"Why, that's my state, too! Nearly all my people come from there. Howdy do, Friend!" And Polly reached her hand across the table impulsively.

He grasped it cordially, and held it just an instant longer than he needed. Violet laughed less naturally than the rest.

"Speaking of Indiana, my dear, what a pretty frock! I declare, they do them awful well in your town. If you told me you got it in New York I'd almost believe it. It's a nice little dress."

What did disturb Polly was that Paul obviously was impressed by Violet's speech. Polly could read in his face what was passing in his mind: "A-ha! So Violet thinks the frock is frumpish-small townish. I knew it wasn't much of a dress myself. Violet knows about these things. Polly doesn't. And she paid $180 for it—Ouch!"

In her high mood, with the admiring glance of Monsieur Barry upon her, and feeling that he looked her best despite Violet, despite Paul, despite her own earlier misgivings, Polly told herself she could choose between two lines of behavior. She could wilt—as Violet wanted her to—or she could be a good little American and fight back. She decided to fight back.

"It wasn't made in Lester Falls, Miss Rand, though my town is pretty clever. I got it at Faverell's. Monsieur Faverell himself supervised it. You told me once you could always spot a Faverell!" Then, turning upon Barry her prettiest smile (Polly's smile was wonderful), she added: "You like it, Monsieur, n'est ce pas?"

"Quite the most distinguished gown I've seen in months," he responded sincerely. "In fact—if you will pardon me—we remarked upon it when you came in. No one, I think, wears beautiful clothes with such distinction as the American girl."

Tactfully he proposed a toast to "The American girl" and the clash was over. Barry and Polly kept the ball of merriment rolling, and when the diners began to thin out and Violet spoke of going, Barry cut in with an emphatic

"Not till I have the promise of all of you to lunch tomorrow at d'Armenoville! I won't take no for an answer. Come, now, one, two, three—"

"Yes!" Polly's voice alone responded.

"Good! You're answering for all!" Violet looked stormy.

"Sorry," she said rising. "I have an engagement."

"It's mighty fine of you," said Paul, "but I've a business appointment outside of Paris."

"Then, little Madame, I challenge you! Will you have pity on a lonely old gentleman—or would you be bored with him?"

Polly glanced at Paul, but he was talking to Violet.

"I accept the challenge," she said demurely, "and will risk—being bored."

You are having four or five tables of edge or the seven club in for the "ternoon. Salad is the first thing you think of serving, being a woman, but wonder just how much "it will take."

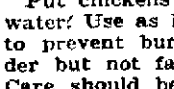

These rules are calculated to serve twenty-five.

Ten pounds fowl, 4 heads celery, 1/2 cup oil, 6 tablespoons vinegar, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon paprika, 1 can pimientos, 4 hard boiled eggs, 1 bunch parsley, 3 cups mayonnaise.

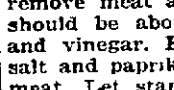

Put chickens on to cook in boiling water. Use as little water as possible to prevent burning. Cook until tender but not falling from the bones. Care should be taken in choosing chickens for salads.

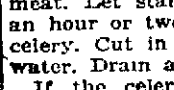

The chickens should be year old hens if possible, but on no account choose a springer for the meat will simply cook to pieces and be impossible to cut in neat dice.

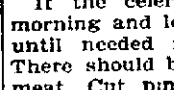

When chicken is tender, cool. Then remove meat and cut in dice. There should be about 8 cups. Chill oil and vinegar. Beat well, season with salt and paprika and pour over diced meat. Let stand in a cool place for an hour or two before mixing. Wash celery. Cut in dice and chill in cold water. Drain and dry on a towel.

ADOPT PLANS FOR MODERN NEW HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING

Structure Will be Erected on Site Adjoining City Auditorium

Kaukauna—A resolution was adopted extending the time for tax payments from February 1 to March 1, at an adjourned meeting of the common council Friday evening in city hall.

Plans for the new Kaukauna high school to be erected this spring were presented to the council by the board of education and were adopted. The site for the school is on the island property adjoining the auditorium. The plans were prepared after several months of labor and after visiting schools in other cities.

Provision was made for a three story brick building. The basement floor will come two feet above the present level of the sidewalk and will contain an important feature of the school, a gymnasium large enough for all athletic activities. There also will be four recitation rooms, manual training and domestic science rooms, locker rooms, shower baths and offices for boys and girls physical directors.

Above the gymnasium will be an auditorium of the same dimensions as the gym. Other space will be provided on this floor for offices and recitation rooms.

Study rooms for students in the junior and senior division of the high school as well as science rooms and laboratories will occupy the third floor. Lavatories and washrooms will be installed on every floor. The entire school is arranged to easily accommodate 450 students and will meet the needs of Kaukauna for several years.

Beauty as well as practicality was aimed at in the plans and the new building will be one of the handsomest schools in the state. One objection to the site adopted has been that the logs stacked along the canal back of the proposed site will be an eyesore. It has been practically assured that the logs will not remain there long and that the free use of the entire ground will be offered the school. There is a possibility that the property may be acquired from time to time until it all is owned by the school. With the land cleared, the natural beauty of the place, which would have attracted annually hundreds of beauty seekers had it been kept up, will create a fine background for the school house.

A bond issue of $200,000 was voted by the council several months ago. Mayor Raught had been empowered to proceed with a bonding house for the issuance of bonds. He read correspondence at the meeting last night to show how the work has progressed. He has received the assurance of the house that everything will be ready by Tuesday, Feb. 7, the day of the next regular meeting of the council. Final action on the bond question will be taken at that time.

SIX STUDENTS WIN SPECIAL AWARDS

Kaukauna—Report cards were issued in the high school Friday afternoon for the last period of the semester. Six special merits were awarded to students whose studies each averaged 90 per cent or above. The students are John Hale and Mark Griffith, seniors; Marie Maes, Harold Frank, Florence Goetzman and Elizabeth Schuseman, juniors.

Seventeen students were cited as having a total average of 90 per cent or above, although they probably fall below 90 in one subject. They are Helene Cullen, Esther Piepenberg and Lorraine Thelen, seniors; Frank Jirkowicz, Marion Newton and Anna Verfeurth, juniors; Helen Arps, Gertrude Ditter, John Galvarith Prentice Hale, Jacob Hovde Raymond Wurro and Margaret Wurro, sophomores; Alice Guilfoyle, Armand Licht, Anna Jackels and Harold Peters, freshmen.

OBJECT TO WAGE CUT BUT EXPECT TO STAY ON JOB

Papermill Employees Decide to Accept Cut Ordered by Arbitrators

Kaukauna—A meeting of Local No. 56, International Brotherhood of Papermakers, was held Thursday evening in north side Forester hall. The members voted to remain at their work in the Union Bag and Paper mill in spite of a reduction in wages which took effect Jan. 9. A reduction of 8 cents an hour was ordered by a board of arbitration.

George Schneider, Appleton, one of the vice presidents of the brotherhood, was present at the meeting. The cut at this time was characterized by speakers as unfair and it was pointed out that men cannot live on their present wages nor can the girls clothe and feed themselves properly on their income.

Instances were cited where a number of the mills had modified the board's decision had modified the wage reductions so that the minimum wage is 35 cents an hour and all above the minimum rate receive a 6 cent reduction instead of an 8 cent reduction as provided by the arbitrary board.

Action on the matter was deferred by the local employees until May 1, when the present agreement expires.

A committee consisting of Gertrude Vander Haden, Elizabeth Blaha, Arnold Ristau and Albert Ristau was appointed to investigate the advisability of holding a strike. The committee will report at the next meeting.

BASKETBALL TEAM GOES TO SCRAP HEAP

Members Played With Non-school Team and Are Suspended

Kaukauna—Basketball in the high school has been discontinued for the time being and all games have been cancelled following the suspension of several of the players from the team for playing basketball with a team not connected with the high school. At least three of the regulars on the high school team and two or three other young men formed a team that played at Menasha Wednesday evening. High school suits also were used. The matter was taken up promptly the next day and the players were suspended. Nothing was said as to whether the men will be required to give up basketball in the school entirely.

No ceremonies marked the presentation of "K's" for members of the 1921 high school football team. Fifteen players were given letters, an annual event which is usually marked with appropriate meetings and enthusiasm. Those who received their awards are Fred Mueller, captain; Elmer Ott, captain-elect; Robert McCarty, Jacob Hovde, Hawkin Hovde, Mark Griffith, Richard Smith Melvin Luckow, Herman Schwin, Lyman Perantau, Sylvester Dix, Richard Lehrer, John Hale, Amy Bayorgoon and Carl Anderson.

The STEP on the STAIRS

by ISABEL OSTRANDER

"We are not criminal lawyers," the other stiffened. "My father is a paralytic, chained to his wheel chair. What can he know of any crime, especially one committed in New York?"

"Because his memory doubtless reaches back, let us say, fourteen years. Have you heard of the recent murder of the celebrated portrait painter, Mrs. Vane? Does 'Vane' suggest a substitute for that of your father's late partner, Venner?"

The young attorney gasped and seized the edge of his desk.

"Heavens! You don't mean that creature who ran off with Venner's son? I was only a schoolboy at the time but I remember the scandal! Young Mrs. Venner herself died soon afterward."

"It is odd under the circumstances that Matt Venner's wife's family didn't come forward and claim her body when she died insane from the mental suffering she had endured at his hands," Barry remarked. "Who was she? Where did she come from?"

"Her maiden name was Barrows, Irene Barrows, but I never heard that she had any living relatives; that is, none of them came forward during any phrase of the tragic affair," Philip added. "I remember hearing that she was an orphan, a school friend, of one of the debutantes of that time and that the marriage wasn't a particularly advantageous one according to the senior Venner, from the standpoint of either money or social position."

"We have learned that she was a stranger in Cleveland but not where she came from," Barry repeated. "Can you tell me? Perhaps your father can help me?" Barry rose.

"I doubt it. But I will take you to him."

In Philip's roadster they soon reached the fashionable suburbs. On a terrace stood a wheel chair in which reclined a solitary figure wrapped to the chin in steamer rugs.

Philip began:

"I came to bring a friend out to see you, a—prospective client, Mr. Barry. This is my father."

"Glad to see you, Mr. Barry; glad the old man isn't altogether forgotten at the office—Philip, run along."

Philip shot a warning glance at the detective and departed.

"Now fire away, Mr. Barry. I presume you have your proper credentials?"

"Social?" Sergeant Barry's tone was innocent.

"Professional, sir! My son is a fool, but I've handled enough criminal cases in my time to know a detective when I see one, and your visit isn't altogether a surprise."

Miss Haskins, my nurse, wouldn't read the latest news of the Vane case to me. I made her do so yesterday before she realized what she had strayed into, and when I learned that that old clerk of ours, Griswold, was mixed up in it, I rather expected that the old scandal would be raked up again."

Barry laughed with boyish frankness.

"I won't try to lie to you, sir," he exclaimed. "We have reason to believe that the woman who was killed was some connection of the unfortunate Mrs. Matthew Venner. We know that the latter was a comparative stranger here, and we thought you might be able to tell us where she came from and who her people were."

A faint flush had come into the withered cheeks and Barry could see that he was shaking excitedly.

"Irene Venner," Barry prompted quietly. "Her maiden name was Irene Barrows and she was visiting a school friend here—"

"Ada Johnson," the quavering voice supplemented. "I suppose she took pity on Irene. Irene came from Whitefield, and I guess her guardian sent her to finishing school as a last resort to get her in with rich folks and marry her off. Anyway, Ada Johnson brought the girl home and the trouble started."

"Do you know anything about this guardian of Irene Barrows, sir?" the detective asked. "Did you ever meet him?"

"Yes, he came on for the wedding, but somehow I can't recall his name. I remember the man himself though because I've met so many of his type: hard-gisted, hypocritical president of a small country bank. He died soon afterwards. I understand."

"Please, Mr. Scully, it is time for your drops now." A nurse approached the invalid. "If the gentleman will excuse you, I'm sure you have talked enough."

The invalid took the medicine and roused himself to peer at the small car chugging up the driveway.

"Who's coming?"

"It is Mrs. Tyrrell," the nurse replied and turned to meet the stout lady who had descended from the runabout and was crossing the lawn toward them.

"Ada, on one of her duty calls," the old man grumbled. "She may be able to give you more information than I. However, for she was the girl I told you about who brought Irene to Cleveland in the first place."

Barry rose and the old man tackled as he extended his hand.

"My dear Ada," he responded. "You were never more welcome than at this moment!"

CHAPTER XI
"Let me present Mr. Barry, Mrs. Tyrrell," said the invalid. Mr. Barry things he knows a relative of a dead friend of ours. I was just telling him that you were the one person who could give him the information he desires."

"This been a most fortunate

"This has been a most fortunate meeting if you can spare me a few minutes," Mrs. Tyrrell, smiled Barry. "for I must catch the next train back to New York."

"I was about to suggest that I give you a lift in my car," she beamed upon him. "We must not tire my dear old friend here and I confess that my curiosity has been aroused. Goodbye, Mr. Scully."

Barry escorted the lady to her runabout.

"Who was this old friend of mine whose relative you know?" asked Mrs. Tyrrell.

"I believe when you knew her first that her name was Irene Barrows, afterwards Mrs. Matthew Venner," Barry replied steadily.

All the color vanished from his companion's face and the little car swerved as she gripped the wheel.

"Irene," she gasped. "Oh, don't remind me of her! Do you know the whole wretched story, Mr. Barry?"

"All except the details of your friendship with her and what you may know of her family."

"When she was seventeen and I a year older I brought her home here to give her a real good time, and she met Matt. I'm not going to say anything about him for he's gone, too, but the whole thing turned out to be a mistake. In a month they were married and two years later his father took on that miserable sneak of a clerk, and of course his wife came to Cleveland, too."

"Her lips tightened.

BARRY COULD SEE THAT HE WAS SHAKING EXCITEDLY.

"Mrs. Griswold, you mean? The one who ran away with Matt Venner?" Barry asked.

"Yes. She was fascinating. I'll say that for her, even though I never liked her."

"Curiously enough Irene did, and that makes what happened all the worse. She was brilliant and different, somehow, and, besides her, poor little Irene was like a dull, gray moth to most people."

"And you never heard that she had any relatives in Whitefield or elsewhere?" Barry asked.

"Why, yes! How stupid of me! There was a younger sister that some people on a farm near Whitefield were taking care of. I forgot about her for she wasn't at the wedding and I never saw her except once, long after Irene's death."

"A sister?" Barry exclaimed.

"When did you see her? What was her first name? Please tell me about her, Mrs. Tyrrell; perhaps she is the relative I know of in New York."

"Well, about seven years after Irene's death and Matt's suicide, a young woman called on me who said she was Mrs. Matthew Venner's sister. Except for being pale and slim I couldn't see any resemblance, for Irene had dark hair and this girl's look-alike as though it had been bleached almost white in the sun."

"There was a strength and assertiveness in her manner, too, that Irene had never had, and although she was shorter by at least four or five inches her face was as old as the hills."

"For what purpose had she come to you?" Barry looked away as he spoke.

"That was the strangest part of it," his companion exclaimed. "I supposed, naturally, that she had come to talk of Irene, but instead she asked innumerable questions in a horrid, eager sort of way about—about the Griswold woman. She didn't give any first name, simply announced herself as 'Miss Barrows.'"

"Had you ever heard your friend mention a younger sister?" Barry's tone had quickened.

"Yes, at school. She had mentioned her by some silly nickname. I gathered that they came of pretty good old stock but had become reduced in circumstances."

"I know she wanted her little sister present at her marriage to Matt but that guardian of hers put his foot down and said he wasn't going to have the child's head filled with notions that would make her disinherited that she would have to stay where she was till she was eighteen."

"Irene went to see her regularly after her marriage, but never said anything about those trips nor brought her to Cleveland."

"Did Irene's sister tell you nothing about herself or her plans for the future?"

"I believe she did mention something about being on her way East."

"What sort of questions did she ask you about Miriam Griswold?"

"I believe she did mention something about being on her way East."

"What sort of questions did she ask you about Miriam Griswold?"

"I believe she did mention something about being on her way East."

"What sort of questions did she ask you about Miriam Griswold?"

"I believe she did mention something about being on her way East."

Barry urged. "Think, Mrs. Tyrrell; this may be more important than you know!"
She glanced quickly at him in amazement.

WAIT FOR YOUR CALENDAR

Although our Washington Bureau had what would normally be an ample supply to fill the demand, the response to the offer of a free calendar this year was so heavy that the Director of the Bureau has had to arrange for a second large edition, which is now in process of manufacture.

The average American has become used to getting a calendar free, and it is one of those things that he wants when he wants it.

Our Bureau will positively be able to fill all orders after a brief delay.

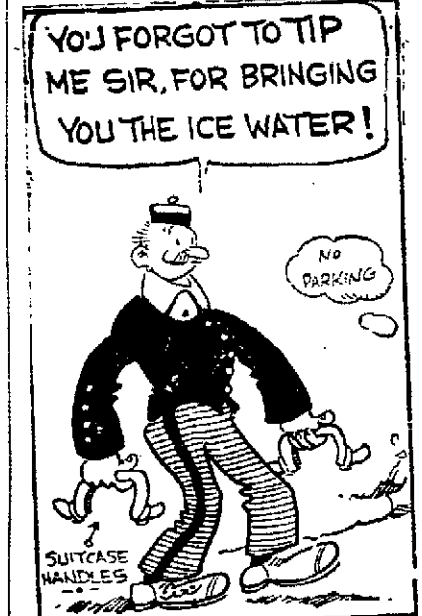

Those of our readers who have written for a calendar without receiving a reply up to this time need not write again. All orders will be filled as soon as the second large edition comes from the press.

In the meantime subscribers are invited to send in their questions to the bureau. There is no charge except two cents in stamps for return postage. Address your letter to:

MR. POULTRY RAISER,

Fox River Valley Poultry Show, Appleton, Wisconsin.

Dear Mr. Poultry Raiser:

I spent Friday afternoon at the Poultry Show in Appleton. There certainly was a fine collection of birds on exhibit there. While admiring them my attention was called to the fact that some of them were for sale.

Mr. Poultry Man, you can easily sell those birds for they were worth all you ask for them. But to sell them you must tell as many people as possible that they are for sale. The Appleton Post-Crescent Want Ads are read daily by everyone in Appleton and by nearly every farmer in Outagamie County. Therefore it is the logical place for you to offer your birds for sale.

The cost of a Want Ad is very moderate and the results are exceptionally good.

One insertion 9c per line.

Three consecutive insertions 7c per line per insertion.

Six consecutive insertions 6c per line per insertion.

Count five average words to the line.

Besides the birds themselves you will no doubt have eggs for hatching to sell. The same people who are interested in your birds will be interstd in buying eggs from Full Blooded stock.

A Want Ad inserted in The Post-Crescent will surely find a buyer for your birds if you have not already found one.

Yours very truly,

Classified Adv. Mgr.

BELOIT WINS FROM LAWRENCE IN GREAT BATTLE

VISITORS PUT OVER VICTORY IN LAST HALF

Come From Behind in Second Period and Win Sensational Clash

Displaying a great brand of teamwork, snappy passing, accurate basket shooting and a strong defense, Beloit college basketball team defeated the Lawrence college quintet Friday night in Alexander gymnasium by a score of 16 to 13 in a bitterly contested battle that was not decided until the final gun was fired. The two efficiently drilled machines put up a sensational struggle from start to finish and after the middle of the first half until the end of the game not more than three points separated the quintets.

Lawrence had all the best of the first period and outplayed the Beloit team for the first half of the game. The visitors finished the half on the long end of a 10 to 5 count. Beloit came with a rush in the second period and after two minutes of play took the lead for the first time during the contest when Laffin caged a field goal from under the hoop. From that time to the finish Beloit never was headed, although the score was tied twice. Five seconds before the game ended Beloit was called for stalling. Lawrence had an opportunity to tie the score and send the contest into an extra period but Ziebell missed the free throw as the gun was fired and the game was over.

LAWRENCE SCORES FIRST
The game started with the teams battling furiously for the ball in the middle of the floor. Lawrence got possession of the ball and by short passes worked it down the floor where it was passed to Collinge under the hoop who registered a easy field goal. The first score was made after one minute of play. A few seconds after the next tip-off Basing dribbled from the center of the floor and put the ball through the net. The ball was seen-saved up and down the floor and both teams were shooting well at the basket.

With the score 6 to 0 against them the visitors started a desperate rally and passing through the Lawrence team after the tip-off the ball was given to Laffin under the hoop and he hit for a field goal, the first Beloit marker of the game.

BELOIT SHOTS WILD
Beloit tried desperately to overcome the lead. Lawrence missed the shot and kept the ball near its own basket but missed several wild shots at the hoop. The Blue and White guards were putting up a great game and did not give the visitors a close-in shot at the net. Laffin got the ball in the center of the floor and registered a basket. With four minutes of the half to play Laffin scored a field goal from a different angle and came back a few seconds later with a ringer from near the center of the floor. The teams battled up and down the floor with neither able to get the ball close to the basket. Lawrence was called for pushing and McAuliffe missed the shot for a basket and McAuliffe registered the two free throws. The Lawrence tappers kept the ball near their own basket but missed several close shots at the net. The first Blue and White marker of the half came after six minutes of play when Ziebell caged the hoop with a free throw. Cook went in at center for Basing. Lawrence took the ball down the floor on the tip-off but Collinge missed a sleeper from under the basket. Lawrence was outplaying Beloit at this stage of the battle but the Blue and White athletes could not let up. The ball was passed to Laffin under the hoop and he hit for a basket. The ball was given to Laffin under the hoop and he hit for a basket. The ball was given to Laffin under the hoop and he hit for a basket.

Players on both teams lined up for the second half ready to put up a desperate battle. The ball seen-saved up and down the floor. After six minutes of play Laffin scored a field goal from under the hoop and Beloit took the lead for the first time during the struggle. The score was 11 to 10.

SCORE IS TIED
The Lawrence athletes appeared to be rattled at this stage of the game and their passing was ragged. Sorenson fouled Laffin and Beloit forward shot for a basket and McAuliffe registered the two free throws. The Lawrence tappers kept the ball near their own basket but missed several close shots at the net. BELOIT TAKES LEAD
The Lawrence rosters were yelling for victory but their hopes were dampened when Comstock put Beloit in the lead again with a ringer from a long shot. McAuliffe fouled Collinge as the Blue and White forward was shooting for a basket. Ziebell made the first free throw but missed the second. Collins was called for holding and McAuliffe made the free throw. Gauke was sent in for Smith. Lawrence got possession of the ball under the Beloit basket, worked it down the floor and Collins caged a ringer from under the hoop. The score was tied again, 16 to 16. Collins held McAuliffe and McAuliffe gave Beloit the lead again with a free throw. McAuliffe came back a few seconds after the tip-off with a field goal from a long shot and Beloit had a 19 to 16 lead with two minutes to play. Lawrence started a desperate rally and passing through the Lawrence team after the tip-off the ball was given to Laffin under the hoop and he hit for a basket. The ball was given to Laffin under the hoop and he hit for a basket.

LAFFIN IS STAR
The ability of McAuliffe to make free throws won the battle for Beloit. McAuliffe had six chances at the net from the free throw line and connected five times. Lawrence scored only four times out of eight chances. Laffin, the little Beloit forward, was the star of the game. He connected for five field goals and was in the thick of the battle all the way. Collins, with three field goals, was high scorer for Lawrence.

The summary follows:
Lawrence: F. Collinge, Laffin, F. P. Ziebell, Winkler, C. Basing, McAuliffe, G. Sorenson, Comstock, C. Smith, Substitution—Cook for Basing, Collins for Collinge, Gauke for Smith, Basing for Sorenson.

NEENAH QUINTET PLAYS APPLETON THURSDAY NIGHT

Dame to Send Strong Team Against Boosters in Professional Battle

Appleton's rejuvenated professional basketball team will perform before local fans Thursday night when George Dame sends his seven players against the Neenah Boosters in Armory G in a regularly scheduled game of the Central Wisconsin Basketball league. The Appleton team lost a hard fought overtime game to the Boosters Wednesday night in the Neenah armory by the margin of one basket, and the players are confident they will hand the Boosters a beating next Thursday when they battle them on the Appleton floor.

Notwithstanding the Appleton men had never played together until they went on the floor Wednesday night they put up a great exhibition and outplayed Neenah the greater part of the game. With the practice next week Manager Dame expects his team to develop into a winning combination.

Chappelle and Belch will perform at the forward berths for Appleton again Thursday night. This pair of basket tappers put up a great struggle against Neenah Wednesday and with a few days of practice together will make trouble for any pair of guards in the league. Loose at center played a great floor game against the Boosters. His eye for the hoop was a little off but he should begin to locate the basket with a few days of practice and is expected to drop the ball through the net for several counters in Thursday's battle. Anderson and Allanger took care of the guard positions in good shape against Neenah and are sure to hold their places for the remainder of the season. They gave their opponents but few close shots at the hoop and were on top of the ball when ever it came into their territory.

A large crowd of Neenah rooters is expected to come to Appleton with the Boosters for Thursday night's struggle.

SPORT VIEWS AND NEWS
The bowlers are in their glory these days. Life is just one little tournament after another. This is the time of the year that the pin game always hits the top spots and it is soaring higher than ever this season. The Madison pin fest is under way and right on the heels of this affair comes the A. B. C. classic at Toledo. Sandwiched in between and afterwards are a number of other events which will keep the bowler busy until about the first of April. Think of the abuse the pins will get.

"Hurry-up" Yost is more talkative these days than in the olden times. We can remember when the Michigan gridiron mentor was frequently likened to a clam because you couldn't get a word out of him. The papers have been quoting "Fielding H." quite frequently of late and he has come forth with some suggestions about the pigskin sport that are worth consumption. In our opinion, there isn't a better versed football man in the country than Yost.

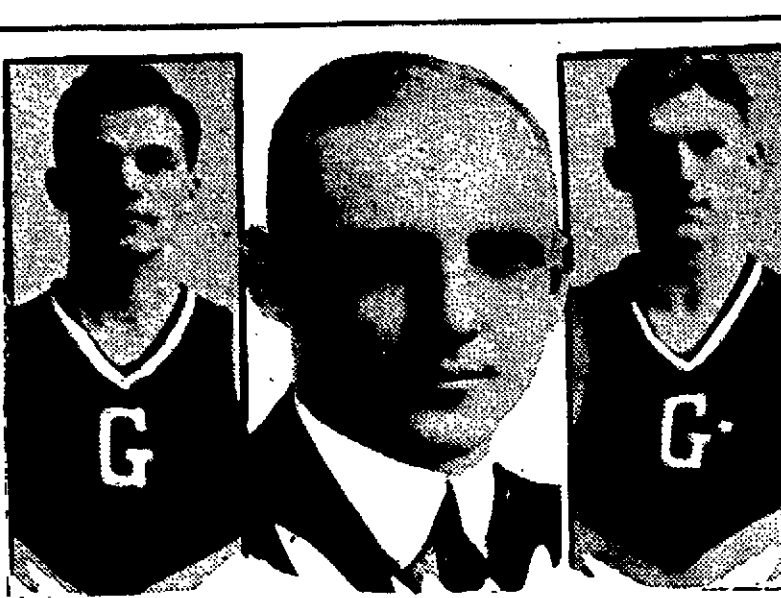

Northwestern is blaming the dominating influence of the co-eds for the poor showing of the athletic teams. It is fortunate that the Purple has some alibi to offer. The Evanston collegians have been getting trimmed so often of late in every branch of sport that there must be something wrong somewhere. The "something" excuse probably will stir up a hornet's nest at the institution but there may be something to it after all.

Harry Herbert may never again be a star on the gridiron but his exhibition of courage will long be remembered by the football lovers. Herbert who was varsity quarterback at Syracuse, broke his neck last fall, and has been in a plaster cast ever since. Instead of giving up the ghost and laying down, the gridder is keeping up his study of law and living in hopes that the day will come when he can get around again. Some pluck, we'll say.

missed the free throw as the gun was fired to end the game.

The ability of McAuliffe to make free throws won the battle for Beloit. McAuliffe had six chances at the net from the free throw line and connected five times. Lawrence scored only four times out of eight chances. Laffin, the little Beloit forward, was the star of the game. He connected for five field goals and was in the thick of the battle all the way. Collins, with three field goals, was high scorer for Lawrence.

Wins 22 Straight Games

STEPANIAN, COACH THORN AND SMITH

Have a care, Centre College. A real rival looms up for athletic prestige.

Grove City College is the latest institution to make a bid for sport laurels.

Centre College won fame on the football field. Grove City College is making its reputation on the basketball floor.

This little college, located at Grove City, Pa., with scarcely 400 students, 50 per cent of whom are co-eds, has set up a remarkable record for consecutive victories.

During last season Grove City College won every game on its schedule, 16 straight. Included in the victories were University of Pittsburgh, Georgetown, University of West Virginia, Washington and Jefferson, Carnegie Tech and other colleges of similar standing.

This season the team started with a run of six straight before it was stopped by the strong team that represented the University of West Virginia.

Captain Stepanian, who is the star of the team, is considered one of the greatest running forwards in the east.

Directors of athletics in colleges throughout the country are taking some hot shots at professionalism in sport.

First came Knute Rockne, the famous Notre Dame coach. Through the intrigues of professional football promoters, Rockne lost three of his star players.

After the close of the football season, a western promoter, anxious to win a big game on which much money was wagered, induced three Notre Dame stars to play under assumed names.

The affair became known, the players confessed and were expelled from athletics. Rockne, however, had lost three of his stars and didn't like it. He came out with a statement in which he characterized professionalism as the biggest menace of college sports.

Later Coach Yost of Michigan flayed the same feature, also the barnstorming idea which has grown so much of late.

Perhaps Yost's feelings in the matter were influenced by the actions of Ernie Vick, his All-American center.

Vick is as big a star on the diamond as the gridiron. He was expected to be of much strength to the baseball team this spring.

A news item says Vick has signed with the St. Louis Cardinals of the National League, has quit his studies in the medical school and intends to go on the spring training trip.

Branch Kickey, who signed George Slinger after he had finished his course at Michigan, no doubt induced Vick to reach his decision.

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago—Charges that "too much is femmo" is responsible for the poor showing of Northwestern university's athletic teams were met on the campus Saturday with the indignant stamping of hundreds of pairs of diminutive galoshes.

"We don't hurt the athletes," declared the co-eds.

"We inspire them."

Pretty Miss Margaret Duthie was particularly pronounced in her refutation of the charges which were originally made by the university paper.

"I call it poor stuff," she blurted out. "And for the alumni to approve such an idea, too—it's perfectly outrageous."

But Miss Duthie wasn't the only one who felt the sting of sharp criticism. The whole school was "terribly upset." Vigorous and informal debates were going on all over the campus.

A. B. Eby of the "righteous indignation girls" held a meeting and adopted resolutions not to accept dates from any man who did not try out for some brand of athletics.

Back some 15 years ago President Ban Johnson of the American League found it necessary to suspend Fielder Jones and Ducky Holmes, two of the White Sox fielders. It was at an important stage of the race.

President Johnson at the time was on a fishing trip in Wisconsin. A few days prior he had sent a couple of lads to Comiskey from a big catch that he had made.

The fish sent to Mr. Comiskey were the best of the catch. With them went a message that he hoped Comiskey would make good use of the bass.

About the same time the bass arrived all nicely packed in ice, came a message announcing the suspension of Jones and Holmes. Comiskey received the fish first and was pleased. When the wire arrived he was much displeased. Here is the message he wired back. It was the beginning of the break between the two.

"Fish arrived. Would be glad to make use of them, if you can tell me how they can be made to play the outfield."

APPLETON HIGH MEETS OSHKOSH NORMAL TONIGHT

Coach Vincent's Quintet Ready for Hard Battle With Teacher Five

Coach Vincent will send his Appleton High school basketball team against the strong Oshkosh Normal second quintet Saturday night in Alexander gymnasium in one of the feature games of the season for the local pros. The teachers have a fast and well drilled aggregation and will give the Appleton tappers a hard struggle.

The Orange and Blue team will not be in the best of shape for the contest. Capt. Brice was confined to his home with a cold this week and has not been out for practice. The Appleton leader, however, will be in the lineup that starts against Normal.

Coach Vincent has announced his lineup as follows:

Brice and Zussman, forwards; Laughlin, center; Kanouse and Bonini guards.

The Appleton high school second team will meet a local independent quintet in a curtain raiser to the Appleton-Oshkosh battle. The second team were scheduled to clash with the Kaukauna high school team but the Kaukauna quintet was disbanded Thursday for playing an independent team, Tuesday night without permission of the school authorities.

The Appleton second team will line-up as follows:

Mills and Heidleman, forwards; Ashman, center; Havens and Gillespie, guards.

The first game is scheduled to start at 7:30 and the main event will get underway at 8:30.

BIG ENTRY LIST IN STATE MEET

Eagles and Hoffman Bowling Teams Roll for Prizes in Madison Today

Competing against 900 bowling teams from 52 Wisconsin cities the Eagles and Hoffman Construction Co. teams of Appleton will roll Saturday and Sunday in the state tournament now being staged in Madison. The big meet got underway Thursday night.

More bowlers are entered in the tournament this year than ever before in the history of the state bowling classic and the Appleton maple busters will be forced to hang up high scores to pull down prize money.

More than $13,000 is offered in money prizes to bowlers in the five-man team and one-man events.

First place in the team event carries with it a $375 cash prize. Doubles winners will receive $125, while the single bowler who hits the highest count in the one-man event will receive $50.

Two-hundred prizes, ranging from $375 to $20, will be awarded in the team event. Low prize in the doubles amounts to $4, and in the singles to $2.

The Arcade and Olympics of Appleton will bowl in the tournament on Feb. 17 and 18. The meet will be well underway by the time the Arcade and Olympics go on the drives and these teams will have some high marks to shoot at.

ILLINOIS GRID TEAM WRECKED BY PROFESSIONALISM

Nine Stars Barred From Athletic Competition by School Heads

By United Press Leased Wire
Urbana, Ill.—The second big house cleaning in big ten athletics within a week came Saturday with announcement that nine star athletes of Illinois university were barred by the athletic board for participation in a semi professional football game after the close of last season.

The game was reported played at Taylorville, Ill., with a number of Notre Dame stars.

The nine men barred from future participation in big ten athletic contests include:

Larry Walquist, star football and basketball player; Jack Crangle, one of the best college baseball players in the conference and football star; Joe Sternaman, football star; "Dutch" Kaiser, one of the best Illinois track men; John Teuscher, D. A. Milligan, Frank Gummage, Dave Simpson and P. J. Green.

The action of the athletic board hits Illinois' hopes for a championship football team next year, a hard blow. Coach "Bob" Zuppke had planned to build his team around Sternaman, a sure drop kicker.

South Bend, Ind.—Notre Dame authorities Saturday proved reports that football players from the university had participated in a semi professional game at Taylorville, Ill., with some Illinois stars after the close of last year's season.

SWEARS ATHLETES DID NOT COMPETE

Slinger Manager's Statements Fail to Save Ripon College Athletes

Reckless efforts of Walter Kratz, manager of the Slinger A. C. basketball team, who persuaded Gustin and Herbst of the Ripon college quintet to play with his aggregation on Jan. 15 for which the Ripon men were barred from taking part in college athletics, failed to get the college players reinstated. Kratz presented a sworn statement that Gustin and Herbst did not play with his team, but after all the evidence was in the Ripon college athletic council voted that there was not the slightest doubt of their guilt and dropped them from Ripon athletics.

Efforts to oust Fitzpatrick, another Ripon basketball player, from college athletics has met with defeat. Fitzpatrick was charged with playing with the Slinger team on Jan. 15, but he proved to the college authorities that he was in Oshkosh on the evening in question.

AFTER HIGH SCHOOLS
Promoters of professional basketball are invading the high schools for material for their teams. It has been found that Senn, star Oshkosh high school tapper played with the Oshkosh BC coach team under an assumed name in Fond du Lac several weeks ago and he has been ousted from the high school team. Since that time he has participated in all games in which the Oshkosh high school has played. Oshkosh will have to forfeit all these games, which in all probability will discredit her for the Oshkosh Normal tournament in March.

The Olympic Hat Shop bowling team will roll five matches during the coming week. The schedule follows:

Sunday: Arcade Stomers, Olympic alleys; Monday, St. Aloysius, Young Men's society, St. Joseph alleys; Wednesday, the Rohms, Olympic alleys; Thursday, Neenah, Neenah Neenah alleys; Saturday, Oshkosh, Oshkosh alleys.

QUERY DAY
A. J. Egan

If, with the runners on the bases, the pitcher in the act of delivering the ball, drops it to his side as he is winding up, what is the penalty? Does it make any difference whether it is intentional or accidental? What is the penalty with the bases empty? It is a balk if the pitcher drops the ball in the act of delivering it to the batsman. It makes no difference whether it is intentional or accidental. It is impossible to discriminate. With the bases empty no penalty is imposed.

INTERLAKES LOSE TO OSHKOSH NORMAL

The Interlake Pulp & Paper Co. basketball team was handed a crushing defeat by the Oshkosh Normal five in Oshkosh Wednesday night by a score of 25 to 7. The first half ended with Oshkosh on the long end of a 16 to 2 score. The Teachers outplayed the Appleton team all the way and in every department of the game.

By United Press Leased Wire
Milwaukee—Resorting to long shots in the second half enabled the Stevens Point normal five to score a 19 to 12 victory over the Milwaukee normal school five here Friday night.

PLAY OFF GAMES IN BOYS CAGE LEAGUE

Buick has taken the conversation out of miles and put real mileage in its place. And there is no secret behind Buick mileage. It is an easily demonstrated fact that the Valve-in-head motor is the most economical of all types.
Coupling economy with ease of operation and smart appearance, and remembering that no one has ever worn out a Buick, isn't it good automobile insurance to drive a Buick?
